Taymor to Unveil New Door and Bath Hardware at International Builders' Show

SAN FRANCISCO, January 3, 2017 — Taymor, the leading North American designer and manufacturer of door and bath hardware, will unveil their newest products for residential builders and designers at the International Builders' Show in Orlando, Florida from Jan. 10-12, 2017. Visitors to booth #W6947 will be first to see the latest designs in locks and door hardware, bath accessories and specialized products designed for the multifamily builder market.

Included among Taymor's product launches will be the company's new Premier Interconnected Lock for residential unit entry doors that can be combined with the company's new and exclusive Catana door lever. The Taymor Premier Interconnected Lock will also be the focus of a 12-month marketing and advertising campaign in 2017 titled Egress from the Ordinary.

The Taymor Premier Interconnected Lock was specially designed to address a gap in the multifamily builder market for a single motion egress unit entry lock that offers clean modern design, compliance to critical codes, and superior value. Together, the new Taymor Premier Interconnected Lock and Catana lever meet the California State Reference Code requiring levers to curve inwards to within 1/2-inch of the door face. The striking new lock and lever design is exclusive to Taymor and patent-pending.

"We worked closely with the design and builder community to develop a single motion egress lock and new door lever design that would be ideal for multifamily projects," said Taymor Vice President of Marketing and Product Management, Alexandra Marshall. "Other unit entry locks on the market that meet critical code requirements have a standard, commercial look. The Catana lever and Premier Interconnected Lock feature a modern design and curvaceous, soft lines that are a distinct alternative to today's dated levers for unit entry doors and the more expensive mortise locks."

The Premier Interconnected Lock also offers design flexibility across a wide range of styles and finishes. When ordering the new lock, customers can select the modern Catana lever or choose from Taymor's full range of Premier levers, offering more than 4,000 different combinations of style, trim, and finish options.
